

Michael Ajemian

Chief of Trauma, Surgical Critical Care and Emergency Surgery - Waterbury, Connecticut, United States

W: <http://www.worky.com/michael-ajemian>

A skilled surgeon dedicated to teaching, Michael Ajemian, M.D., directs the Surgery and Trauma, Critical Care, and Emergency Surgery programs at Saint Mary's Hospital, a non-profit teaching hospital in Waterbury, Connecticut. Moreover, he sits on seven of the institution's committees, including Critical Care, Trauma Performance, and Surgical Education. Dr. Michael Ajemian also holds professorships at St. George's University, the American University of the Caribbean, and Saba University, all in the Caribbean, and at the University of Connecticut School of Medicine.

Dr. Michael Ajemian earned his B.S. in Forest Biology from the State University of New York College of Environmental Science and Forestry in Syracuse in 1988 and M.D. from Eastern Virginia Medical School in 1993. He performed his residency in general surgery at the Stony Brook University School of Medicine, after which he completed a fellowship in surgical critical care at North Shore University Hospital in Manhasset, New York.

Michael Ajemian's Professional Experience

2005 - Present

St. Mary's Hospital - Chief of Trauma, Surgical Critical Care and Emergency Surgery

Director of Residency Program in Surgery, Assistant Professor of Surgery University of Connecticut School of Medicine.

Michael Ajemian's Education and Qualifications

1993

PhD/Doctorate - Medicine

Eastern Virginia Medical School

Michael Ajemian's Additional Information

Links

Dr. Michael Ajemian's personal site - <http://michaelajemian.net/>

Dr. Michael Ajemian's LinkedIn profile - <http://www.linkedin.com/in/michaelajemian>

Dr. Michael Ajemian's Visual CV - <http://www.visualcv.com/michaelajemian>

Dr. Michael Ajemian / Zerply - <http://zerply.com/michael-ajemian>
